

New pharmacy coming to Boots store in Union Square soon

July 2010

Customers at the Boots store in Union Square at South Terrace, Union Square, Aberdeen, will soon be able to pick up their prescriptions as well as their health and beauty products, when a new pharmacy opens at the store today, on Monday 12 July 2010.

The pharmacy will offer customers a full community pharmacy service, the latest contemporary private consultation area – which will contain all the necessary facilities for carrying out a large selection of advisory services as well as providing access to a wide range of healthcare services, which include NHS Minor Ailments and Prescription Collection. Customers aged 60 and over can also join Boots Health Club and receive personalised practical advice and information on a range of health topics.

Lynsay Brown, Store Manager, Boots, Union Square, commented:

“The new pharmacy in the store will be really beneficial to the local area, as it will give customers the added convenience of being able to do their shopping and pick up any prescriptions they may need at the same time. We are very much looking forward to introducing this new service into our store.”

Penny Godfrey marketing manager for Union Square commented:

“We are delighted to welcome a Boots pharmacy to the centre. With its arrival comes additional diversity to our already outstanding retail offering. The location of the outlet within the existing store is also sure to be a hit with customers who will enjoy this convenient new service.”
